HELPING A BUSY FAMILY GROW AND THRIVE

The Erickson household is made up of two working parents and their three children. Between the five of them, their needs are a constant juggling act. Despite this, they have fully maximized the resources offered by Project Access.

All three children attend the After School Program to have a quiet and safe space to get help with their homework. Their parents utilize the onsite food assistance program which helps relieve their budget and cooking classes that teach them how to prepare healthier meals. The community building events have helped the Ericksons get to know their neighbors.

They can’t imagine living somewhere without a Project Access.
